Wateen, Pakistan's leading communications and technology company was one of the main sponsors at the recently held "Anti-terrorism and disaster management conference and exhibition," which took place from January 21 to 23. The conference and large-scale corporate event was organised to help a showreel of products.

Which aid in tackling security related threats and also produced presentations on high-scale security solutions by various local and international vendors. Sindh Home Minister Dr Zulfiqar Mirza and National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) Chairman General Farooq Ahmed Khan (Retd) chaired the various sessions respectively.

Experts like Dr Rohan Gunaratna from Nanyang Technological University Singapore, Sultan Sallahuddin Babar Khattak, IG Sindh Police, Sharfuddin Memon, Chief CPLC and Brigadier R. Rashid Ahmed Malik, President of Security 2000 gave presentations on anti-terrorism, public safety, security and disaster management to the attending delegates of the conference.

Adil Mir (Product Head Video Surveillance) and Ahsan Akhtar (Head of Solutions) from Wateen Telecom gave demonstrations to the audience on advanced video surveillance IP based systems. These can be enhanced with motion detection, sound surveillance, 360-degree focus and a variety of applications.

The two-day conference and exhibition had more than 15 companies including ACS, Wateen, G4S, Hesco Barriers and Security 2000 talk about, present and showcase the latest and most effective anti-terror security products and solutions available in the region.

The event was the first of its kind with hundreds of visitors attending it and most looked forward to participating in more such events in the future. Wateen further reiterated its commitment to Pakistan by sponsoring a strategic event of this nature which was held at a time when security and terrorism is a hotly debated issue in Pakistan and the rest of the world.-PR
