Indonesia's President might travel to Australia next month to work out the details of what has been named the Indonesia solution. Australia is expected to provide at least $50m to its northern neighbour to boost its ability to intercept process and accommodate asylum seekers headed for Australia. Wilson Tuckey, Liberal Backbencher sparked outrage this week when he suggested terrorists could be passing themselves off as asylum seekers. Rohan Gunaratna, Singapore based terrorism expert says Australia might have something to learn from Canada's recent experience with a boat of asylum seekers from Sri Lanka. Gunaratna says that the ship was identified as Tamil Tiger owned and operated.
